ANTI-MAHONE CONFERENCE--THE ONLY POSSIBLE COMPROMISE.

Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.

PETERSBURG, Va., September 30, 1889.

"Will there be any compromise with Mahone?" was asked to-day of one of the "kickers" who will attend the conference held in Richmond to-morrow. "I have heard of no proposition for a compromise," he said, "and I am not able to come up with one." The only possible compromise that will be entered into by him is the absolute withdrawal of General Mahone from the Republican ticket." Of course, it is the only basis upon which the English congressional Committee for conference at headquarters to-morrow.

ALEXANDRIA NOTES.

UNITED STATES COURT--Personal Matters.

Postscript to the Dispatch.

ALEXANDRIA, September 30.--The United States Court will not have been held here to-morrow, as the absence of the judge, H. Hughes, postponed until to-morrow. A large number of citizens of King George and Westmoreland counties were present to witness the calling of the various cases in which they have been summoned as witnesses. The court will open to-morrow at 10 o'clock. Judge Hughes was prevented from arriving by making connection with his train.

The Electric Light Company expected as their guests here to-night a number of Lynchburg gentlemen representative of the Comptroller of that city, who turned up in time to meet our old friends and to have mirth with mortification when he arose to introduce Malone to the audience.

It is stated that the Republican Legis-ative Convention for the counties of Prince George and Surry, which recently met and broke up without making nomination, is to meet again at the same courthouse.

Herbert Brown (deceased) claims that he had the majority of the delegates in the first convention and that he was duly nominated. He says that some members were not present, and it is said that whether nominated or not-to-day--and the presumption is that he will not be--he will remain in the field as a candidate.

ALMOST A SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

The Sunday-night accommodation from Richmond, here, at 10 o'clock, arrived here to-morrow two hours later, narrowly escaping a threatened series disaster. The train was crowded with passengers from this city, who had spent the day in Richmond. Paul Walthall, so it is said, was the two who accommodated train, a switch had been left open, and the train from Richmond in harking to make way for the one from this city had its rear passenger car a few feet off the track.
